The Conklin House

In the late 18th Century, farmers and builders on the North Shore became aware of a useful resource that was theirs for the taking on the South Shore of the island. That resource was from the salt marshes that grew along the water's edge in what was called South Huntington. They cut and took wagon loads of salt hay back home with them to use as animal bedding, insulation in their homes, and even to stuff mattresses. It was an arduous trip and many stayed overnight here. Saloons and boarding houses sprung up to accommodate them.

In 1989, the house, located at 280 Deer Park Avenue in Babylon Village, was in danger of being torn down. A group of concerned citizens, together with the Village of Babylon, saved the house and it is now owned by the Village of Babylon and is part of the Village of Babylon Historical and Preservation Society.

The House: The rooms in the house depict the various eras the house has seen

The Gardens: The gardens of the Nathaniel Conklin House were designed to reflect the gardens of the Victorian Era. They include roses and perennials that graced many Victorian homes. Additionally, a "kitchen garden" has been added abundant with fruit trees and herbs.

The Barn: Completed in 2002, the barn was built to specifications of an authentic working barn at Old Bethpage Restoration. It is filled with tools and artifacts reflective of Babylon's farming, fishing and hunting history.

House tours are offered on the third Saturday of each month between 12 p.m. and 1 p.m. Tours are free.

Some 2025 Events: Apples and Arts Festival, High Tea at the Conklin House, Dinner for Eight raffle, cooking demonstrations & workshops. Stay tuned for 2026 events.
